The Long Road Home (TV Tie-In) 2017-10-03: A national Geographic miniseries event. ABC News Chief Global Affairs correspondent Martha Raddatz shares remarkable tales of heroism, hope, and heartbreak in her account of Black Sunday, a battle during one of the deadliest periods of the Iraq war. The first cavalry division came under surprise attack in Sadr City on Sunday, April 4, 2004. More than seven thousand miles away, their families awaited the news for forty-eight hellish hours. Expecting the worst in this powerful, unflinching account, Martha Raddatz takes readers from the streets of Baghdad to the home front and tells the story of that horrific day through the eyes of the courageous American men and women who lived it. A masterpiece of literary nonfiction that rivals any war related classic that has preceded it. The Washington Post.

Mclain author of the paris wife when Charlie Boykin was young, he thought his life with his single mother on the working class side of Nashville was perfectly fine but when his mother arranged for him to be admitted as a scholarship student to an elite private school he is suddenly introduced to what the world can feel like to someone cushioned by money that world he discovers is an almost irresistible place where one can bend and break rules and still end up untarnished as he gets drawn into a friendship with a charismatic upperclassman. Archer Creigh and an affluent family that treats him like an adopted son. Charlie quickly adapts to life in the upper echelons of Nashville society under their charming and alcohol soaked spell. How can he not relax and enjoy it all the lack of anxiety over money the easy summers spent poolside at perfectly appointed mansions. The lavish parties, the freedom to make mistakes knowing that everything can be glossed over or fixed but over time Charlie is increasingly pulled into covering for Archer's constant deceits and his casual bigotry at what point will the attraction of wealth and prestige wear off enough for Charlie to take a stand and will he the fortunate ones is an immersive elegantly written story that conveys both the seductiveness of this world and the corruption of the people who see their ascent to the top as their birthright.

2015-02-03 To the list of writers connecting mainstream readers and cutting-edge science, Malcolm Gladwell, Steven Johnson, James Surowiecki add Read Montague with this exploration of what exactly determines the choices we make. With a new perspective on the science of decision making from the researcher at the center of the computational neuroscience revolution. Why choose this book? It shows what the latest brain science reveals about the crucial events of everyday experience, the choices we make from how we decide what we consume to what kind of art we like, and even the romantic, ethical, and financial choices we make. Read Montague guides the reader through a new approach to the mind with an accessible style that is both entertaining and illuminating. In taking apart the mind's decision making machinery, Montague first illustrates how our brains are like computers that are slow, small, fuzzy, and cheap. And began with goals like food, water, and sex. Second, he reveals how simple goals like these then turn into ideas like beauty, love, and terror, with a life of their own. Finally, he explains how a value system in our heads controls those ideas so we can make good decisions and how that physical system can break down leading to bad decisions, addictions, mental illness, and even large economic disasters.
