layman's point of view with no bias toward religion or academia the human instinct to worship a superior being and the consequence of this attribute are evaluated by the author ever since humans have evolved to the level of consciousness where we started to ask ourselves the question who am i we conceptualized a god who made it all happen these existential concepts that we have correctly or erroneously adopted come with confusion and contradictions does an anthropomorphic god who is loving and caring allow or cause a tsunami or pandemic to kill millions of people would the same loving and caring god allow one group of people to use his name to facilitate the dehumanization pillaging and raping of another group of people the answers to these questions are usually not objectively explored because of religious and cultural biases the work explorations in truth the human condition and wholeness is an unconventional gaze into the landscape of our complex inner life exploring inner experiences and testifying to the truth of life s sordid beauty and sacred dread what does it mean to live an authentic life without illusion and accept the complexities of life and death this book has woven together personnel experiences existential philosophy quantum physics jungian psychology and contemplative spirituality into a tapestry what is truth how do we know what is truth can the truth save these are questions we ask ourselves at some point in our lifetime the undeniable truths in this book are philosophical theological and scientific an undeniable or universal truth in accordance with facts and reality is considered undeniable because it has been observed to be true through history of man feast yourself and drink some truths you will find human and supernatural truths to satisfy your curiosity this book is a response to postmodernists who take the position that there is no foundation for truth there are only stories we posit two types of truth truth about existence created by scientists which serves as a foundation of truth for existence truth about existence describes human nature a major component being the human sense of self following george herbert mead the self is not an entity it is process it is not substantive it is functional there are two phases to the self the i phase and the me phase the i phase has its roots in biology so when the needs of the self are not being gratified individuals suffer when individuals suffer life is without meaning individuals despair it is human needs and their inherent tie to suffering that points the way to truth for human existence and happiness because other people value what they need needs and their corresponding values serve as the foundation for truth about existence upon which truth for human existence is constructed in divine truth or human tradition the author critically examines the viewpoints and scripture expositions of prominent evangelical scholars and apologists including dr james r white author of the forgotten trinity dr john macarthur president of the master s seminary wayne grudem author of the widely read systematic theology robert morey author of the trinity evidence and issues robert l reymond author of a new systematic theology of the christian faith and others according to what has long been considered mainstream christian orthodoxy the doctrine of the trinity the idea that the one god of the bible is a singular being made up of three coequal and coeternal persons is not only central to the christian faith but even necessary for one to accept in order to be counted as a true christian and be saved such a demand on a christian s faith has come across as strange and perplexing to many especially so in light of the fact pointed out by one respected trinitarian the trinity is not clearly or explicitly taught anywhere in scripture yet it is widely regarded as a central doctrine indispensable to the christian faith in this regard it goes contrary to what is virtually an axiom that is a given a self evident truth of biblical doctrine namely that there is a direct correlation between the scriptural clarity of a doctrine and its cruciality to the faith and life of the church millard j erickson god in three persons p 11 emphasis added understandably this fact has raised questions in the minds of christians and truth seekers alike ever since the doctrine was first articulated in the late 4th century many christians have wondered how can a doctrine that is not clearly or explicitly taught in the bible be necessary to accept in order to be a true practitioner of the christian faith between the late 1970s and the late 1980s guatemala was torn by mass terror and extreme violence in a genocidal campaign against the maya which became known as la violencia more than 600 massacres occurred one and a half million people were displaced and more than 200 000 civilians were murdered most of them maya buried secrets brings these chilling statistics to life as it chronicles the journey of maya survivors seeking truth justice and community healing and demonstrates that the guatemalan army carried out a systematic and intentional genocide against the maya the book is based on exhaustive research including more than 400 testimonies from massacre survivors interviews with members of the forensic team human rights leaders high ranking military officers guerrilla combatants and government officials buried secrets traces truth telling and political change from isolated maya villages to national political events and provides a unique look into the experiences of maya survivors as they struggle to rebuild their communities and lives in this wide ranging book one of the boldest thinkers in modern neuroscience confronts an ancient philosophical problem can we know the world as it really is drawing on provocative new findings about the psychophysiology of perception and judgment in both human and nonhuman primates and also on the cultural history of science jean pierre changeux makes a powerful case for the reality of scientific progress and argues that it forms the basis for a coherent and universal theory of human rights on this view belief in objective knowledge is not a mere ideological slogan or a naive confusion it is a characteristic feature of human cognition throughout evolution and the scientific method its most sophisticated embodiment seeking to reconcile science and humanism changeux holds that the capacity to recognize truths that are independent of subjective personal experience constitutes the foundation of a human civil society exhibiting terror lindsay french the united nations has established a right to the truth to be enjoyed by victims of gross violations of human rights the origins of the right stem from the need to provide victims and relatives of the missing with a right to know what happened it encompasses the verification and full public disclosure of the facts associated with the crimes from which they or their relatives suffered the importance of the right to the truth is based on the belief that by disclosing the truth the suffering of victims is alleviated this book analyses the emergence of this right as a response to an understanding of the needs of victims through to its development and application in two particular legal contexts international human rights law and international criminal justice the book examines in detail the application of the right through the case law and jurisprudence of international tribunals the human rights and also the criminal justice systems as well as looking at its place in transitional justice the theoretical foundations of the right to the truth are considered as well as the various objectives appropriate for different truth seeking mechanisms the book then goes on to discuss to what extent it can be understood constructed and applied as a hard legally enforceable right with correlating duties on various people and institutions including state agencies prosecutors and judges naturalistic ethics is the reigning paradigm among contemporary ethicists in god and cosmos david baggett and jerry l walls argue that this approach is seriously flawed this book canvasses a broad array of secular and naturalistic ethical theories in an effort to test their adequacy in accounting for moral duties intrinsic human value moral knowledge prospects for radical moral transformation and the rationality of morality in each case the authors argue although various secular accounts provide real insights and indeed share common ground with theistic ethics the resources of classical theism and orthodox christianity provide the better explanation of the moral realities under consideration among such realities is the fundamental insight behind the problem of evil namely that the world is not as it should be baggett and walls argue that god and the world taken together exhibit superior explanatory scope and power for morality classically construed without the need to water down the categories of morality the import of human value the prescriptive strength of moral obligations or the deliverances of the logic language and phenomenology of moral experience this book thus provides a cogent moral argument for god s existence one that is abductive teleological and cumulative pope paul vi characterized the second vatican council s declaration on religious freedom dignitatis humanae as one of the greatest documents of vatican ii it is also perhaps the most intensely debated document of the council both the drafting of the declaration of religious freedom and its reception have been marked by deep disagreements about what this teaching means for the church in this book david schindler and nicholas healy promote a deeper understanding of this important document in addition to presenting a new translation of the approved text of the declaration freedom truth and human dignity makes available for the first time in english the five drafts of the document that were presented to the council bishops leading up to the final version the book also includes an original interpretive essay on dignitatis humanae by schindler and an essay on the genesis and redaction history of the text by healy a lifetime treasure revealing the truth about human nature is a compendium of timeless wit and wisdom bringing us face to face with our fundamentally creative but generally overlooked quality sobering and deeply compelling the species self rediscovery book provides the key to human actions that want to succeed and endure as well as insights for people who want to reach their full potential this volume presents a theoretical defense of the potential of ordinary individuals to construct values and through them to become self empowering responsible participants in a democratic community rather than conceiving of power as domination the author identifies true power as self empowerment a notion based on self construction he proposes the vision of an authentically free self filled with a compassion that is a composite of reason and feeling such a composite self does not consciously manipulate language truth and desire to dominate and subordinate other individuals but uses them to construct values and norms that can enrich others to support his argument the author draws on both classical and contemporary philosophers as well as on literary sources having come to an understanding that our existence on this planet and within the universe is not guaranteed we ask ourselves the following questions what do we want our future to look like do our political religious and social structures assist us in our search for truth or do they cripple our opportunity for growth the human being challenges the reader on core political religious and social beliefs by taking a look at what history has displayed humans to be new york times bestseller a meditation on sense making when there s no sense to be made on letting go
