Toilers of the Sea 1866

Jules Verne, the celebrated French author of Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea and Around the World in 80 Days, wrote over 60 novels collected in the popular series Voyages Extraordinaires. A handful of these have never been translated into English, including Invasion of the Sea, written in 1904 when large-scale canal digging was very much a part of the political, economic, and military strategy of the world's imperial powers. Instead of linking two seas as existing canals, the Suez and the Panama, did Verne propose a canal that would create a sea in the heart of the Sahara Desert? The story raises a host of concerns—environmental, cultural, and political. The proposed sea threatens the nomadic way of life of those Islamic tribes living on the site, and they declare war. The ensuing struggle is finally resolved only by a cataclysmic natural event.

This Wesleyan edition features notes, appendices, and an introduction by Verne scholar Arthur B. Evans, as well as reproductions of the illustrations from the original French edition.

Unlike some other reproductions of classic texts, we have not used OCR optical character recognition as this leads to bad quality books with introduced typos. In books where there are images such as portraits, maps, sketches, etc., we have endeavored to keep the quality of these images so they represent accurately the original artefact. Although occasionally there may be certain imperfections with these old texts, we feel they deserve to be made available for future generations to enjoy.

For voir la mer Sophie calle invited inhabitants of Istanbul who often originated from central Turkey to see the sea for the first time. I took 15 people of all ages from kids to one man in his 80s. Once we were safely by the sea, I instructed them to take away their hands and look at it. Then when they were ready for some time, it was five minutes and for others, 15. They had to turn to me and let me look at those eyes that had just seen the sea. The project was eventually composed of 14 five-minute videos made for calle by Caroline Champetier. Each person is filmed from behind eventually turning to face the camera revealing the emotions the experience has evoked. This charming catalogue features calle's evocative photographs of these subjects.

Le Vieil Homme Et la Mer 1961

Booker prize winner national bestseller. An extraordinary meditation on mortality, grief, death, childhood and memory. USA Today about a middle-aged Irishman who has gone back to the seaside to grieve the loss of his wife. In this luminous novel, John Banville introduces us to Max Morden, a middle-aged Irishman who has gone back to the seaside town where he spent his summer holidays as a child to cope with the recent loss of his wife. It is also a return to the place where he met the graces, the well-heeled family with whom he experienced the strange suddenness of both love and death for the first time. What Max comes to understand about the past and about its indelible effects on him is at the center of this elegiac gorgeously written novel. Among the finest we have had from this masterful writer.
