this book presents 13 high quality research articles that provide long sought after answers to questions concerning various aspects of reuse and integration its contents lead to the inescapable conclusion that software hardware and design productivity including quality attributes is not bounded it combines the best of theory and practice and contains recipes for increasing the output of our productivity sectors the idea of improving software quality through reuse is not new after all if software works and is needed why not simply reuse it what is new and evolving however is the idea of relative validation through testing and reuse and the abstraction of code into frameworks for instantiation and reuse literal code can be abstracted these abstractions can in turn yield similar codes which serve to verify their patterns there is a taxonomy of representations from the lowest level literal codes to their highest level natural language descriptions as a result product quality is improved in proportion to the degree of reuse at all levels of abstraction any software that is in theory complex enough to allow for self reference cannot be certified as being absolutely valid the best that can be attained is a relative validity which is based on testing axiomatic denotational and other program semantics are more difficult to verify than the codes which they represent but are there any limits to testing and how can we maximize the reliability of software or hardware products through testing these are essential questions that need to be addressed and will be addressed herein

This book therefore discusses such themes as the early introduction of Islam to the Indonesian archipelago, the development of Islamic learning educational and legal institutions. Not least important, the book also reveals the religious intellectual and political relations between Islam in the archipelago with that of the Arabian world. Professor Azyumardi Azra is a brilliant authority in Islam in Indonesia no one interested in Indonesian Islam can afford to be without this book. Professor Dr. M. C.
