personal information we have all been to sites that welcome us by name offering us discounts deals or special access to content for the most part it feels good to be wanted to be valued as a customer but if we thought about it we might realize that we ve paid for this special status by turning over personal information to a company s database and we might wonder whether other customers get the same deals we get or something even better we might even feel stirrings of resentment toward customers more valued than we are in niche envy josep turow examines the emergence of databases as marketing tools and the implications this may have for media advertising and society if the new goal of marketing is to customize commercial announcements according to a buyer s preferences and spending history or even by race gender and political opinions what does this mean for the twentieth century tradition of equal access to product information and how does it affect civic life turow shows that these marketing techniques are not wholly new they have roots in direct marketing and product placement widely used decades ago and recently revived and reimagined by advertisers as part of customer relationship management known popularly as crm he traces the transformation of marketing techniques online on television and in retail stores and he describes public reaction against database When Jesus was a Green Eyed Brunette weaves heartwarming and miraculous stories of Jesus showing up in ordinary people, revealing that he knows us and is fully present in our everyday circumstances, especially in our difficulties. Bestselling author Max Davis puts it when we are born again, Jesus lives inside each of us. He is very much alive today and still does incredible things, sometimes supernatural, through us. Davis’s own life was dramatically altered when he first came face to face with Jesus living inside a green-eyed brunette. That encounter started a forty-plus-year journey where Jesus became his best friend. When we see others as God sees us, we will love them as God loves us. Those hurting and weary from worn-out religion are longing for a fresh touch from the living Jesus. By letting Jesus live through us, we become a conduit of his love. Authentic Christianity is not about religion but a relationship with Jesus. Davis challenges us to do more than simply receive his grace; we need to allow grace to soften change and shape us. As you read this book, you will laugh, cry, and come face to face with the living Jesus.
