hart’s argument that we need to drastically revise our current view of illegal drugs is both powerful and timely when it comes to the legacy of this country’s war on drugs we should all share his outrage the New York Times book review from one of the world’s foremost experts on the subject a powerful argument that the greatest damage from drugs flows from their being illegal and a hopeful reckoning with the possibility of their use as part of a responsible and happy life Dr. Carl Hart, Ziff professor at Columbia University and former chair of the department of psychology, is one of the world’s preeminent experts on the effects of so-called recreational drugs on the human mind and body. Dr. Hart is open about the fact that he uses drugs himself in a happy balance with the rest of his full and productive life as a researcher and professor husband, father, and friend in Drug Use for Grown-Ups he draws on decades of research and his own personal experience to argue definitively that the criminalization and demonization of drug use, not drugs themselves, have been a tremendous scourge on America not least in reinforcing this country’s enduring structural racism. Dr. Hart did not always have this view; he came of age in one of Miami’s most troubled neighborhoods at a time when many ills were being laid at the door of crack cocaine. His initial work as a researcher was aimed at proving that drug use caused bad outcomes, but one problem kept cropping up: the evidence from his research did not support his hypothesis from inside the massively well-funded research arm of the American war on drugs he saw how the facts did not support the ideology the truth was dismissed and distorted in order to keep fear and outrage stoked the funds rolling in and black and brown bodies behind bars. Drug use for grown-ups will be controversial to be sure the propaganda war Dr. Hart argues has been tremendously effective imagine if the only subject of any discussion about driving automobiles was fatal car crashes drug use for grown-ups.

The American Exporter 1918

1 New York Times bestseller, the story of modern medicine and bioethics and indeed race relations is refracted beautifully and movingly. "The American Exporter" is now a major motion picture from HBO starring Oprah Winfrey and Rose Byrne. One of the most influential CNN defining LitHub and Best the Philadelphia Inquirer books of the decade. One of Essence’s 50 most impactful black books of the past 50 years. Winner of the Chicago Tribune Heartland Prize for nonfiction. Named one of the best books of the year by the New York Times Book Review, Entertainment Weekly, O, the Oprah Magazine, NPR, Financial Times, New York Independent, UK Times, UK Publishers Weekly, Library Journal, Kirkus Reviews, Booklist, Globe and Mail. Her name was Henrietta Lacks but scientists know her as Hela. She was a poor Southern tobacco farmer who worked the same land as her slave ancestors yet her cells, taken without her knowledge, became one of the most important tools in medicine. The first immortal human cells grown in culture which are still alive today, though she has been dead for more than sixty years. Hela cells were vital for developing the polio vaccine, uncovering secrets of cancer viruses, and the atom bomb’s effects. They helped lead to important advances like in vitro fertilization, cloning, and gene mapping and have been bought and sold by the billions yet Henrietta Lacks remains virtually unknown. Buried in an unmarked grave, Henrietta’s family did not learn of her immortality until more than twenty years after her death. When scientists investigating Hela began using her husband and children in research without...
