Book excerpt: For the first time, a mood of solemnity seeing that their intercourse had always before been in the vein of pleasantry and badinage common to the first stages of courtships, this new experience appeared to dignify their relation and weave them together with a new strand. At length she said, ‘Why didn’t you go after poor George and cheer him up instead of going home with me? Anybody could have done that. No doubt replied Henry, seriously, but if I’d left anybody else to do it, I should have needed cheering up as much as George does.’ Dear me, she exclaimed, as a little smile, not exactly of vexation, curved her lips under cover of the darkness. ‘You take a most unwarrantable liberty in being jealous of me; I never gave you, nor anybody else, any right to be and I won’t have it. Very well; it shall be just as you please.’
